THE LATEST NEWS BY WIRE

SPEAKER REEK AGAIN IN THE ROLE OF TYRANT.

The House Has Another Disgraceful Scene, Caused by Reed's Decisions—No Chance for a Ruling for Democrats.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 1.—HOUSE.—The Washington public seems to have taken for granted that the great struggle in the House in the past few days are not to be kept up, because the galleries, while pretty well filled at the hour of meeting to-day, did not present the jammed appearance of yesterday; and there was no such pressure and surging through the corridors as was the case yesterday. Nevertheless it is the understanding among the members that the democrats will persist in their tactics and obstruct as far as possible all legislative business so long as there is no regular body of rules to govern them. There was no reference in the chaplain's prayer to the excitement of the hour. The speaker at the close of the prayer directed the clerk to read the journal of yesterday. One of the reading clerks proceeded to do so, but when he came to the phrase "yes and nays" and so forth, Mr. McMillan interrupted and required that the reading be in full.

"Does the gentleman," said the speaker, "desire the reading of names?"

"I do," was Mr. McMillan's response; and the speaker ordered that to be done. The clerk started off again and rushed through the names at railroad speed. The journal embraced a full stenographic report of the speaker's explanation yesterday in reply to Mr. Bynum's question of personal privilege, including points of general application, etc. The reading was closed at 12:20; and instantly Mr. Springer was on his feet with a motion to correct the journal.

Mr. McKinley was not so precipitate, but he got up slowly and moved that the journal be approved, calling for the previous question on that motion the speaker recognized Mr. McKinley's motion entirely ignoring Mr. Springer. But Mr. Springer was not to be ignored in that way, and he immediately made a motion to adjourn, in view of the fact, he said, that we have no rules, etc.

"The gentleman from Illinois," said the speaker blandly, "is out of order in making any remarks on a motion to adjourn. The question now is, shall the house adjourn?"

He put the question to the house, but several demagogues demanded the yeas and nays and that interesting exercise was proceeded with. The democrats did not refrain from voting, and consequently it was not necessary for the speaker to keep his little memorandum of members present and not voting. After the roll was called the speaker was about to announce the result, but was stopped by a demand from Mr. McMillan that a recapitulation of the vote be read. That also helped to consume time, and it was one by the clock when the result was announced, which was, yeas, 135; nays, 158; so the house refused to adjourn.

The next step in the procedure was the call for the previous question on Mr. McKinley's motion to approve the journal of yesterday. The yeas and nays were demanded by Mr. McMillan and were ordered. The democrats did refrain from voting, and it became necessary for the speaker to note the names of those who were present and declined to vote.

As the speaker arose to announce the result of the vote Mr. Dockery asked whether it was not proper to have the yeas announced.

The speaker replied that it would be proper if time permitted, but he declined to announce them and proceeded to name as present and refusing to vote:

Messrs. Allen of Mississippi; Andrew of Massachusetts; Bankhead of Florida; Beckwith of Arkansas; Carlisle, Caruth, Chipman, Clements, Compton, Covert, Crain, Crisp, Culberson, Dockery, Edmunds, Hoar, Griggs, Harre, Hemp-hill, Holman, Hooker, Kilgore, Lanham, Maish, Mansur, Martin of Texas, McAdoo, McMillan, McKee, Onthwaite, Seney, Spinola, Springer, Stockdale and Stone of Kentucky.

"In addition the speaker continued, 'the following is the vote: yeas, 161, nays, 0. There being a constitutional quorum present the speaker declared that the previous question is ordered. The question is now on the motion that Mr. Springer again interposed his motion to adjourn, and persisted in interrupting, but was entirely ignored by the speaker, who again declared the question to be on Mr. McKinley's motion to approve the journal.

Mr. Hoffman demanded the yeas and nays, which were ordered, the same performance which was in the last vote being repeated.

The speaker read the names of members present and refusing to vote, and added, 'Yeas, 160; nays 0.'

The speaker—The journal is approved.

Mr. Rowell called up the Smith-Jackson election case from the Fourth West Virginia district and Mr. Crisp raised the question of consideration. The speaker declined to entertain the question of consideration and Mr. Crisp appealed.

The speaker—The chair declines to entertain the appeal.

Mr. Crisp—Then, under protest, I will proceed.

Mr. Crisp offered as a substitute for the resolutions of the majority of the election committee those of the minority declaring that Mr. Smith had not been elected from the Fourth district of West Virginia, and that Mr. Jackson had been and was entitled to retain his seat. He went on to say that the side of the house felt it right and proper to enter a protest against being required to act on the contested election case in the absence (within the meaning of the constitution) of a quorum of the house.

He spoke for some time of the dilatory action of the committee on rules, and how it had been affected by Carlisle's illness, but now he was ready the committee would not meet. Finally he proceeded with an argument on the election case.

Mr. Crisp was followed by Mr. Rowell and the latter spoke only of the Smith-Jackson case, and desired a portion of the printed record. The speaker would not permit and a lively debate followed. O'Ferrall declared that he would read it whether permitted by the chair or not, and would do so for the confusion and excitement. He finally took his seat, but will speak Monday. The house adjourned.

THE CROOKED CASHIERS.

New York Still at Work on Her Defaulting Bank Men.

NEW YORK, February 1.—The President of the Sixth National bank, Peter J. Claassen, who surrendered himself last night was held in $30,000 bail this forenoon by United States Commissioner Shields. Claassen's counsel and friends are now trying to obtain bondmen. Meanwhile, Claassen will remain in the custody of the United States officers. Bank Examiner Hepburn makes an affidavit under date of last night in which he says, that on or about the 23rd day of January, 1890, Peter J. Claassen, president and director of the Sixth National bank, did, for the use, benefit and advantage of himself, unlawfully embezzle, abstract and wilfully misapply a large sum of money and funds and credits of the bank, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $432,466, with intent to injure and defraud the Sixth National bank of the city of New York. This affidavit was sworn to before United States Commissioner Shields.

The situation about the Sixth National, Equitable and Lenox Hill banks this morning was practically unchanged, except, indeed, that depositors appeared to be out in larger numbers. There were many business men among them, who still indulged in the hope that some turn might place, which will permit of their receiving money enough to pay off their employes. Ordinary depositors held their ground, determined that if business men got any money, so would they; and as long as they had any, they would see that there was no making fish of one and flesh of another. The superintendent of the State bank department, when seen at the Lenox Hill bank this morning, said he had charge of the investigation being made into the affairs of the Lenox Hill and Equitable banks. His statement was not ready; it would not probably be before the afternoon. With regard to the probable arrest of cashiers Van Zandt of the Lenox Hill bank, and Courter of the Equitable, Mr. Preston declined to express an opinion. In reply to a number of questions as to whether or not Preston had discovered any additional irregularities since yesterday, Mr. Preston declined to say.

The following notice was posted on the window of the Sixth National bank at quarter to 12 o'clock:

Mr. Leaud has advanced funds sufficient to guarantee the payment of depositors in full, at as early date as proper arrangements can be made for that purpose. (Signed,) A. R. HEPBURN, Examiner.

Late in the day Mr. George H. Pell was brought down to the United States building from Ludlow street jail. Counsel for Pell, ex-judge Donohue says that he will make a motion for a reduction of bail before commissioner Shields this afternoon.

MORRISON R. AVERY.

His Death Was the Result of a Most Unfortunate Joke.

Charlotte Chronicle.

Fuller particulars of the death of Morrison R. Avery are obtained from a letter from Mrs. Moran, of Morganton, to her aunt, Mrs. Harvey White, of this city, who says:

"Morrison Avery's death was so sad. Two young men came with the body. They say Morrison was taking this wretched cold, 'la grippe,' and had gotten some whiskey and quinine to take for it. His two room-mates passing by the room of an acquaintance saw a bottle marked 'Pure Rye Whiskey,' and thought it would be a good joke to take it out; and so they took it to their room, and set it on the mantelpiece. Morrison had retired, and next morning when he got up, he took up the bottle and took a swallow of what he thought was his medicine, and it was carbolic acid. He knew in a moment he was poisoned. He walked to the wash-stand and fell perfectly unconscious, and was dead in twenty minutes. They say the room-mates brought the hot iron in, and were crazy. None of them drink at all, and it was only a joke, taking, as they thought, the whiskey from this other fellow."

STATE NEWS.

Wilmington Messenger: Yesterday about noon while Peter Johnson, a sailor, was on a scaffold engaged at work on the hull of the British bark Kamekama, he fell into the river and was drowned. He was on the scaffold by himself, and no one in the vessel saw him fall, but the drowning was witnessed by several persons who were on the city side of the stream. Among those were some British sailors who made an effort to get a boat and go to the river and save him, but he sank out of sight before a boat could be had.—Many useful household articles are made of indurable fibre-wire. These goods are claimed to be better than articles made of wood, paper, tin or iron wire.

Scottish Chief: Mineral water is abundant along Little River in the western part of Columbus county, but only one spring (McFadyde's) has attracted any notice. The medicinal value of these waters may be very great, and it would be well for those owing springs to have the water tested by a good chemist. Why should he be left to the river and be as valuable as that in other States so extensively advertised? There are at least a dozen mineral springs within ten miles of this point in Robeson county.

Charlotte Democrat: A street robbery took place last Friday night within half a block of the electric light Air Line depot. A white man was attacked by two negroes who were frightened off by his cries of murder. His pocket-book containing $100, and pistol were taken and his overcoat, coat and under clothes to the skin were sliced over the left breast. The man was from Union county, near Monroe. The negroes escaped.

Salisbury Watchman: The business done by the postoffice shows a larger increase during the last two years than any other town in North Carolina, with one exception. The salary of the postmaster is based on the number of stamps sold at his office, and the increase has been such as to make the salary of our postmaster $200 more than it was two years ago.

Durham Sun: Yesterday afternoon a colored boy cutting wood on Gaston Vickers' place, in the southern part of town, noticed some dogs growling in a newly made place in the ground and it attracted his attention. Upon examination he found buried there a coffin about two feet long, wrapped up in some old calico.

Mrs. Coppinger Mightily Better.

WASHINGTON, February 1.—The condition of Mrs. Coppinger, Mr. Blaine's daughter, who is reported to be slightly improved this morning.

FOR A CHILDREN'S HOME.

A Meeting to be Held at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday Evening.

A meeting will be held on Monday evening, February 3rd, at 7.30, in the lecture hall of the Y. M. C. A., in the interests of the Children's Home. The public are cordially invited to attend. The committee will read a report setting forth their intentions and plans. This will be followed by a short address by Rev. Dr. Rankin explaining more in detail what the work is expected to develop into. Rev. Mr. Bryan will then give some interesting facts in connection with work of a similar nature elsewhere. Dr. Carroll will also present a few remarks.

The program arranged for the meeting will be short and extremely interesting, and those who do not avail themselves of this opportunity will find they have missed a treat. The meeting will only last a short time to enable those who may have other engagements for later in the evening to be at liberty to fulfil them. It is hoped every man and woman in Asheville who feels his heart stirred with any feeling of sympathy for the helpless and destitute little children will come to this meeting.

A Very Sudden Death.

Capt. A. L. Kaylor, a builder, died very suddenly yesterday morning at the residence of Capt. Crowell, in North Asheville. He had been apparently in perfect health, sitting up and talking cheerfully until 11 o'clock the night before, and then retiring. Soon after he complained of a violent pain in the back of his head. Medical aid was soon called, but it was without avail; and he died early in the morning.

Capt. Kaylor came here very recently from Morganton under a contract with the architect, Mr. Melton. He was of noted skill in his avocation, and his services were much in demand. He was a captain in the late war in the 16th regiment, commanded by Col. J. S. McElroy. He was about 56 years of age, a widower, and leaves a family of several children.

His remains were taken to Morganton last night.

A Tennesseean's Idea.

James S. Fitzgerald is the editor in chief of the Tennessee Pilot, a paper devoted to the interest of Morristown. At present he is at the Grand Central hotel enjoying rest and recreation. A short time ago Mr. Fitzgerald issued a special boom edition of his paper, and in a column headed, "Why capitalists should invest in Morristown" appears the following interesting and choice bit of information:

It is near the center of East Tennessee, a section that gave 25,000 majority in favor of Harrison and protection to American manufacturers.

Its real estate is lower than that of any city in the world, considering the great natural advantages. Politically East Tennessee is different from any other section of the south. Here men are as free as they are in Maine or Michigan.

Of the Schubert Quartette.

Of the Schubert Quartette, which will appear here on February 11 and 12, no paper where the company has appeared has ought but good to say. The National Republican of Washington refers to them as follows:

"The quartette is a model organization, and the rendition of each allotted number was succeeded by loud and prolonged recalls. Their vocalization was exquisite, and both shading and phrasing were of the most perfect order. The Schubert Quartette can fill the biggest house in Washington solely by their merit as vocalists."

Filthy Sidewalks.

An ordinance was passed recently requiring property holders to scrape the accumulated mud from the pavements in front of their premises. The ordinance is a good one; so good that it ought to be enforced. It is done in some instances, it is not in others, as we find out after every rain or drizzle when we seem to be paddling, or rather sliding, on soft soap. Now we ask the authorities to see that there is not made fish of one and flesh of another.

A Centennial.

John Comans, who lives near Hominy Valley, celebrated his 100th birthday yesterday, and the neighbors for miles around helped him to do it well.

The old man thoroughly enjoyed the affair and was as spry as his younger companions. He is hale and hearty and apparently still has a good lease on life.

Perhaps a Belt Road.

Mayor Blanton with several of Asheville's business men were showing the town yesterday afternoon to a number of foreign capitalists who are here with a view to investing extensively.

The particular project on foot is the building of a belt road, twelve miles in length, to skirt the city.

Methodist Song Service.

The Central Methodist church people have recently purchased new hymn books. These books have some of the old Methodist hymns in them—hymns that were sung a century ago. To-night at the song service, these old time hymns will be used. It will be an interesting service.

A Child's Death.

Tommy Ogden, the bright three year old son of J. H. Ogden, died at the home of his father on Depot street yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held Monday and the body will be interred at Hominy.

A Death.

We learned yesterday of the death of Mr. Frank Brittain, of Henderson county, who died on Thursday night at his residence on Mills River. He was about 70 years of age, and one of the oldest citizens of the Mills river valley.
